THE FISCHER–TROPSCH SYNTHESIS

ROBERT BERNARD ANDERSON

With a chapter on the Kölbel-Engelhardt Synthesis by H. KÖLBEL and M. RALEK

The Fischer–Tropsch Synthesis provides a comprehensive account of the catalysts, kinetics, and reaction mechanisms of the Fischer–Tropsch Synthesis (FTS). Literature discussed in the book includes pertinent papers from 1955 through 1983, reviewed by a chemist with nearly forty years of experience in the FTS. Topics covered include: • kinetics and reaction mechanisms of the FTS; • reviews of catalysts tests on Fe, Co, Ni, Ru, Mo, Rh, Pt, and other metals; • the thermodynamics of synthesis reactions and catalytic materials; • the history of the FTS. The quest for a homogeneous Fischer–Tropsch catalyst is described. Anderson also summarizes Bureau of Mines studies of iron carbides, nitrides, and carbonitrides and explains the process of growing a carbon chain. A special chapter of the Kölbel–Engelhardt synthesis is written by Professors H. Kölbel and M. Ralek.

APPLIED INDUSTRIAL CATALYSIS

Volumes 1–3

Edited by BRUCE E. LEACH

Catalysts play a major role in the production of chemical intermediates from oil, natural gas, coal, and natural feedstocks. The objective of this three-volume treatise is to provide a practical description of catalysis as utilized by industry. The authors—all experienced industrial scientists—explain important aspects of current commercial operations with the use of specific examples. While these examples represent current industrial practice, they obviously do not disclose proprietary information.

Applied Industrial Catalysis: • discusses catalyst design and preparation; • presents feedstocks, reactor design, and operating conditions for numerous processes; • provides comprehensive treatment of important industrial chemical processes; • shows the interaction of chemistry and economics.
